

Computer and Mouse

One day in September, Computer moved from Technology City to Rats City. He liked to dance and rock out but the only problem was he didn't have anyone to dance or rock out with. After he went to eat lunch with his mom, Television, she told him he should find a friend. He looked and looked. No one talked to him. He felt so sad. Then he went for a walk to think and eventually stopped looking for a friend. He went home to sleep. The next day, he went to the park. He saw a mouse jumping around. Mouse came by and they talked about music. Mouse said, "I love to rock out, do you?" Computer said "Yes!" Mouse said, "Hey, I have an app on my phone that plays music." Computer said, "I can play music with iTunes." They listened to music all day and danced all night.

Student wishes to be Anonymous